“Making Thinking Visible” with Mark Church

November 16-17, 2018

Pechersk School International Kyiv, Ukraine

In this seminar, participants will examine this notion of creating and sustaining classrooms where student thinking is valued, visible, and actively promoted every day. We'll look closely at the cultural forces that exist in powerful communities of learning — including the routines of thinking, the language and discourse of thinking, the modeling of thinking, the opportunities of thinking, and the expectations of thinking. Participants will explore practical and concrete ways to make student thinking move visible in various classroom contexts through the use of thinking routines and documentation. Participants will also consider just where teachers make choices to leverage a classroom's cultural forces to cultivate in students powerful thinking dispositions.

Mark Church works with educators throughout the world striving to create cultures of thinking in their classrooms and schools. Mark challenges teachers to foster thinking dispositions in students in service of deep understanding. He invites teachers to promote a discourse of thinking in their classrooms that communicates value for student sense-making. Also, Mark encourages teachers to make their classroom environments rich with the documents of student thinking processes.

He is currently a consultant with Harvard Project Zero's Making Thinking Visible and Cultures of Thinking initiatives worldwide, drawing upon his own classroom teaching experience and from the perspectives he has gained working with educators throughout North America, Australia, Asia, and Europe. Mark enjoys helping teachers examine opportunities for student thoughtfulness, use thinking routines as supports and scaffolds, interact with students in ways that demonstrate interest in and respect for students' thinking, and send clear expectations about the importance and value of thinking in learning. Together with Ron Ritchhart and Karin Morrison, Mark is co-author of the book Making Thinking Visible: How to Promote Engagement, Understanding, and Independence for All Learners (Jossey-Bass, 2011).
